Dear Alex:

Going through my old mail I found evidence that I had not yet applied for the distribution of your 1960 publication selection list reprints. In past years I have enumerated a very substantial fraction of the total list as within our field of interest. This is even more true at the present time and I wonder if I could impose on you to send the entire list. Since we are building a rather extensive library covering fields of genetics and allied biological sciences in the medical school, these reprints will serve the interests of a considerable number of people.

With best regards and many thanks,

Yours sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg
